Participants also agreed that foreseen and upcoming tasks together with partner roles were clearly explained, and that generally speaking the meeting as a whole has been appropriate and productive.

The partners underlined the aspects of the meeting that were particularly good:

- The organization
- The logistic of the meeting and the discussion
- The practical and effective value to the parties
- The chance to get more information about project, role of members and outcomes that we need to try and complete during 3 years
- The understanding about work plan and roles of each partners
- The agenda was really well organized so the time was used in a fruitful way. Also enough time to know each other was foreseen since the partnership is quite wide and there are a lot of culture and legislative differences.
- The "meeting" part of the meeting: identifying our partners for the future work so that we can progress in the project development. Identifying the key aspects of the project.
- The participation of all the partners to the discussion

No negative remarks by the partners: just a small comment about some of the presentations contents which were too long.
